Message from the CEO

At EDL, our vision is to be the leading global producer of sustainable distributed energy.

We strive to build collaborative partnerships for mutual benefits with all our customers. We are of the firm belief that the more we collaborate to help you succeed, the closer we are to achieving our vision.

We live and breathe our SPIRIT values in everything we do. Bringing our values to life through our partnerships with our customers is paramount. To achieve mutually beneficial outcomes, we are committed to developing and sustaining collaborative partnerships with the long term in mind. It is through regular communication, understanding your business needs and continuing to foster relationships built on trust that joint success can be achieved.

At the forefront of everything we do, we aim to not just meet, but to exceed your expectations. That is why we have created our Customer Charter outlining both EDL's service commitment to you and what you can expect from partnering with EDL. This charter also provides our staff with clear standards and practices to deliver on our commitments to you.

We look forward to receiving your ongoing feedback on how we can continue to improve the way we work with you.
